Monday, February 6, 2006 Privacy Networks Launches Email Management Platform

Fort Collins, Colorado-based Privacy Networks has launched a new email management platform. The company said today that it has a new, integrated email management platform that combines spam and virus protection with email archiving features. The company said that it is targeting corporations, government, healthcare, managed service providers and hardware systems manufacturers. The firm is targeting the SMB market. The new platform starts at $5000 and is also available as a hosted service. The firm is backed by Aweida Venture Partners.
